

PanicPin Hardware: The "Dread Band"

A wearable wristband that physically makes sure you never forget how anxious you should be.

Danger Haptics: The band vibrates harder the closer you get to anything with a bad review.

Walking through a busy market feels like holding a jackhammer.

Heart Rate Amplifier: When it detects your heart rate rising, it alerts you that your heart rate is rising, which raises your heart rate, triggering another alert. Infinite loop by design.

Public Shame LED: A bright red light on the band glows when you're anxious, so everyone around you knows you're a nervous tourist. Pickpockets love this feature.

Panic Siren: One accidental tap blasts a 120-decibel alarm and broadcasts your location to every PanicPin user within a mile.

Proprietary Charger: Only charges at official PanicPin kiosks, located exclusively in airports you're no longer in. When the battery dies, the app tells your emergency contacts you've disappeared.

Smart Luggage Tag Add-On: Screams "I'M BEING STOLEN" whenever anyone touches your bag, including you and the airline.

Bundled price: $299 plus the $49.99/month subscription, and the band is locked if you cancel.